

Water Education Foundation announces Water 101 Workshop: The Basics and Beyond

The Water 101 Workshop details the history, geography, and legal and political facets of water in California, as well as current issues facing the state. This annual workshop, held at McGeorge School of Law in Sacramento on Feb. 22, will be beneficial to water resource industry staff, engineering and environmental firm personnel, city council members, county supervisors, legislators, legislative staff, press, advocates, attorneys, stakeholders, environmentalists, public interest organizations, and water district directors. This workshop will be led by some of the leading policy and legal experts in the state, and should provide attendees with a deeper understanding of California's most precious natural resource. There will also be an optional tour of the Delta on the following day. Click here to register.
